Cultural Classroom

This Issue:

- Signs of Spring
- Cultural Classroom

Hello Again! We are now at the end of February, and almost finished term 3 at Kei-Sho. This month started with the annual Cultural Classroom (this time it was a movie) and we had Entrance Exams for next year's students. The first Signs of Spring are also starting to appear through the cold. We are almost at the end of the year now!

Signs of Spring:

As we approach the end of February, the temperature is starting to rise. Mornings are still cold, but the days are getting longer and warmer. As a result, while still few and far between, some small Signs of Spring are starting to appear. Early flowers are starting to bud and bloom, adding a small amount of colour to the trees which have been colourless since December.

There are still a few more weeks before we can truly say that Spring is here, but I think it's ok to enjoy these early signs too.

Cultural Classroom:

As is annual tradition, this year Kei-Sho held our Cultural Classroom on the 1st of February. This is one of the few days where the 3rd year come to 'school' in term 3. This year, we went to the Nerima Cultural Centre, where we watched a movie in the small hall.

The movie we watched was called CODA. CODA stands for Children Of Deaf Adults. The movie was about a deaf family and their daughter who could hear. It was an emotional movie that showed many of the struggles of being a teenager, as well as the additional difficulties of being the only hearing person in a family.

I hope that by watching the movie, students could learn a bit about deafness and gain some understanding for people who face difficulties. I hope they can use this knowledge to grow and help others when they can -Llew
